

Paul Revere's Historic Ride Is Reproduced

The famous ride of Paul Revere in 1775, from Boston to Lexington to warn of the approach of the British was reproduced the other day in all its details. The mayor of Boston is here seen bidding goodspeed to the rodden Revere; and at the right is the home of Revere on North Square, Boston, from which he started.

When Germany's Great Military School Closed

The closing of the big military school at Lichterfeld, near Berlin, in accordance with the treaty terms was made the occasion for a gathering of many of the men who became notorious during the war. General von Ludendorf and other well-known Germans are here shown at the final review.

Mr. Meredith Sticks to the Horse

Secretary of Agriculture Meredith is quite content with an old-fashioned coach and pair, even in these speedy days of the automobile. It is a very dignified equipage, worthy of a cabinet member.

Uncle Sam's Newest Destroyer

The destroyer McFarland just after its launching at Camden, N. J. This vessel is named after a helmsman on Farragut's flagship, the Hartford, who was killed at Mobile, Ala.

TO CONTROL IRELAND

General Macready, commissioner of police. It is understood, has been designated to take over the military control of Ireland with vastly increased forces at his disposal.

MOST COSTLY OF HATS

In appreciation of the indorsement of the "Four Seasons for Millinery" by Mme. Deschanel, wife of the president of France, the most expensive hat ever created, has been made for her. This hat valued at $5,000 is the gift of 30,000 milliners of America. It has nine paradise plumes, and a crown of black lisse the interior of which is made up of 48 pieces of silk, each representing one of the states of the Union.

Scene in the "Klondike" of Oil Seekers

Those who mourn the days of adventure and romance in the once wild and woolly West can still find excitement down in the new oil towns of Texas. There the bad man, the gunman, the confidence man and the gambler, have come into their own again. This is a view of one of those mushroom places, known as Newtown.

City Hall of Hamburg Guarded by Troops

Government troops guarding the city hall in Hamburg during the latest attempt to overthrow the present regime in Germany.

Wireless Inventor's Fine Yacht

The beautiful steam yacht Elettra, owned by Guglielmo Marconi, the famous wireless inventor, photographed as it was leaving Southampton, England.

COUNTESS COMES AS COOK

Fleeing from the communists who had seized control in Austria, Countess Elizabeth Zichy, niece of the king of Belgium, left Budapest, and with great peril and difficulty, suffering many hardships, made her way to Paris southern Italy, from which place she sailed on the S. S. Szetrenyi as a cook and worked her way to New Orleans.

Riding a Wild Moose in Mid-Stream

Albert St. John, a New Brunswick guide, is one of the few who ever rode a wild moose and lived to tell the tale. He and a companion were rowing across a lake when a huge moose plunged into the water and started to swim across. St. John leaped onto the back of the animal and stuck there and the other guide snapped this picture of the strange ride.

ALLIES' VICTORY MEDAL

First photograph of the allies' victory medal. It bears on one face the arms of all the allied nations.